

Hello Chairman Powell and Commissioners,

I am a citizen who wants to be informed about the political and electoral issues that affect my life. I am greatly disappointed by the lack of informative television programming.

Our democracy is at risk when many Americans don't know basic facts about the candidates or the issues.

Since broadcasters have clearly failed in their obligation to serve the public interest, the FCC should define meaningful public interest requirements that include local civic and electoral affairs programming. At a minimum, broadcasters should air three hours per week of local civic and electoral affairs programming, with at least two hours devoted to substantive election coverage in the six weeks prior to Election Day.

As the elections approach, a well-functioning democracy demands that citizens have access to a diversity of opinions and voices on the choices confronting us.

Sincerely,
Megan Laws
